

English Ladies Final

Hannah Jones 5-0 Jan Hughes

Ladies World number 7 Hannah Jones defeated Jan Hughes 5-0 to win the first ever English Ladies Championship.

The result didn't do the game justice, neither player really played at their best and most of the frames were close. The game got off to a slow start, Hannah eventually taking the first frame on the brown. She also took the next on the black, after Hughes missed it off the spot and left it on.

Hannah started playing better in the third, taking it with ease, and also took the next by doubling the frame ball blue. This put her one frame away from the title at the interval, and she took the frame to lift the inaugural ladies title.

Champion Hannah Jones said "I feel good, I'm really proud of myself. I didn't play great early on, but I got a bit better and played well in the last frame which was the important one."

She also added "My main goal is to play on TV with the men, but until then I just want to continue winning trophies."
